¡LA GUAJIRA!

DAY 01

ARRIVAL IN RIOHACHA

Includes: Breakfast

Upon our arrival at Almirante Padilla Airport, we will be met and transferred to the hotel. The rest of the day is free to take your first steps around Riohacha – a city where the Caribbean and Wayuu culture meet in a way that feels unlike any other corner of Colombia.

DAY 02

RIOHACHA – PUNTA GALLINAS

Includes: Lunch & dinner

We depart for Alta Guajira – one of Colombia's most remote and extraordinary territories, where the desert and the Caribbean Sea share a border in a way that exists nowhere else in the country. Along the way, we cross the Jepirachi Wind Farm, Puerto Nuevo, Portete, the Bahía Honda Desert, and Bahía Hondita – landscapes that gradually reveal the scale and raw beauty of this ancestral Wayuu land.

Our midday stop is Tarao Beach – a swim in the Caribbean and lunch by the sea before climbing the Tarao Sand Dunes, where mountains of sand descend directly into the ocean in one of Colombia's most unusual landscapes.

The day ends at the Punta Gallinas Lighthouse, the northernmost point of South America. From here, the sunset over Punta Agujas Beach feels like the very edge of the world. After dinner, those who wish to can rest in a chinchorro – the traditional Wayuu hammock, hand-woven and suspended between two points, which is the most authentic way to spend the night in La Guajira.

DAY 03

Wayuu Handicrafts

Chinchorro Hammock

PUNTA GALLINAS – URIBÍA – MAYAPO

Includes: Breakfast, lunch & dinner

The morning takes us to Uribí, the indigenous capital of Colombia and the heart of Wayuu culture. Its markets, its handicrafts, and the daily presence of a community that has inhabited this peninsula since long before any borders existed make this one of the most authentic stops of the journey. We will have lunch in the town before continuing toward the coast.

Mayapo Beach awaits with that calm, untouched Caribbean that defines La Guajira – clear waters, sand, and the sunset painting the sky orange over the sea. For those who wish, a night in a chinchorro under the Guajira stars is the most genuine way to say goodbye to this land.

DAY 04

Wayuu Ranchería

Entayaa

MAYAPO – RIOHACHA

Includes: Breakfast & Lunch

After breakfast, we head to a Wayuu Ranchería for the closest and most human experience of the trip. We will spend time with one of Colombia's most emblematic indigenous communities – learning about their matrilineal social structure, their beliefs, their customs, and an ancestral legacy that has survived for centuries without losing its essence.

The visit includes a tasting of Entayaa, the traditional welcome drink; an introduction to the meaning of facial painting with Ulüshi; time with the artisans and their weaves – which are among the most elaborate in South America – and Wayuu music and dance, expressions that encapsulate the identity of a culture that remains very much alive. After lunch at the ranchería, we begin our return to Riohacha. La Guajira – its dunes, its desert, the Punta Gallinas lighthouse, and the Wayuu people – stays behind in that particular way that places unlike any other always do.

If payment is made in Colombian Pesos (COP), the price will be converted at the interbank exchange rate (TIB) on the day payment is made; this applies up to 105 days before departure – after that date, if the airfare block is canceled, ticket prices may be taken from the system, which may increase the program's cost.
